1234 GO Records Overlord Stevo says...

This is your chance to finally own the record that the guy who washes dishes at your night job has been raving about. It's a Half Man, Half Rabbit, Half Nude, lo-fi, bubblegum garage rock soundtrack to sweethearts holding hands and kissing on a long walk home to a rock and roll orgy presided over by Little Richard, Motormouth Maybelle, Alan Freed and Joey Ramone. If you aren't instantly in love the second this hits your stereo, I'm afraid there isn't a fun bone in your body or a human heart in your chest. This record has been known to cause small children to burst in to song and dance and jaded weirdos to drop $80 on ebay. It also totally restored my faith in the East Bay's ability to house and turn out amazing music again.

Southern Lovin' says...

Well, what more is there to say? Here's a dude in a fucking rabbit mask, singing some ridiculously poppy songs over perfectly sloppy guitars and drums. The bedroom recording makes me feel like I'm thirteen years old again, dubbing the first Clash tape in my friend's basement. The songs range in influence from bouncing Ramones-y pop-punk to throwback doo-wop numbers like "Mess Me Up," most clocking in at under two minutes to keep things fresh. If you've ever rocked a leather jacket and bright red Chuck Taylors, you're gonna love it. Grab some beers, have some friends over, get stoked, get into it, get weird.

"NOBUNNY has released a rip-roaring good-times party album that comes on like the illegitimate offspring of the Archies, Joey Ramone, Hasil Adkins and Kim Fowley. A mixture of gritty, fuzzy garage rock and giddy, sticky bubblegum music, the catchy songs, including the hilarious "Land of 1,000 Dances" parody, "Nobunny Loves You," and the creepy-yet-bouncy "The Boneyard," are all instant classics." - LA Times

"Essentially a mindfuck multiplied by a clusterfuck." - Real Detroit Weekly

"Handclaps, broken pianos, toilet-bowl guitars and whisky bottles full of piss used as maracas make up just a portion of this irresistible infection. NOBUNNY loves you and NOBUNNY cares, and the next time he's in town, if you've never been hugged by a horny, drunken Muppet, you should seek him out." - Tuscon Weekly

FFO: Hasil Adkins, Jay Reatard, Cheap Time, GG Allin, The Ramones

THE STORY: NOBUNNY was born an hour west of Tucson, AZ in the Saguaro Desert. Living in a trailer as a mere man with no water, phone, or electricity gave him plenty of time to think... "What am I gonna do with my life?" He was trying to come up with something that could pay the bills and be somewhat enjoyable, so he decided to fill the untapped niche of an Animal Elvis Impersonator. There was already a fat Elvis, skinny Elvis, black Elvis, Asian Elvis, female Elvis, midget Elvis, EXTREME Elvis... but no animals. He figured he could tour the Elvis circuit and make a name as Elvis Bunny. He did a lot of practicing Elvis tunes and moves in the desert with an old acoustic guitar but eventually started writing his own material. In the meantime, he decided to go into town and busk on the street as the "No-Money-Bunny". He didn't make a single penny, but with a trip to Chicago looming, he booked his first show on Easter 2001 at the Fireside Bowl, where NOBUNNY made his proper debut. The set was dedicated to Joey Ramone (who died that day) and included a mix of originals and covers (including Hasil Adkins, The Bobbyteens, Electric Eels, and The Dictators).

NOBUNNY has played every Easter since then, including one show on the streets of Philly where he was assaulted and robbed. The live show changes all the time. You never know if it's going to be solo, a full band, a 2-piece, or if NOBUNNY will even show up. In the tradition of Andy Kaufman and Tony Clifton's antics, he's played shows in two different states at the same time by sending out imposter Nobunnies to do his deeds. NOBUNNY has been known to blow out his voice on tour, pass the mask on to others, and assume the role of bassist or guitarist while "Nobunny" entertains the crowd.

Homeless for most of his adult life. Known to strip down to tighty whiteys. Known to be drunk. Known to be a pervert. Known to live each day blind and go the distance.

TOUR HISTORY: Has toured almost non-stop for the last two years and covered almost all of North America, including Mexico, Canada, a full US tour, three midwest tours, and countless legs across the West coast.

LITTLE KNOWN FACTS: NOBUNNY's grandfather helped NASA send the first US monkeys into space. NOBUNNY used to be an ice cream man. NOBUNNY loves to collect buttons. If you play your cards right, you might be able to snag a super-limited handmade NOBUNNY action figure. NOBUNNY appeared on Chicago's infamously hip Chic-A-Go-Go TV show, a local-access program that features dance music for children, hosted by Rasto, a puppetronic rat (more info: www.roctober.com/chicagogo).

FUTURE PLANS: Aside from non-stop touring, NOBUNNY has two upcoming "7"s, one on Hozac Records in late December '08 and one on Douche-master Records in late January '09. Possible Euro tour '09?
